$900 MILLION IN AMERICAN RECOVERY RESCUE PLAN FUNDING TO TRIBES ACROSS THE COUNTY

WASHINGTON – Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary – Indian Affairs Bryan Newland announced on Friday April 30, 2021, that the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) has begun disbursing $900 million to federally recognized tribes under the American Rescue Plan (ARP) Act. ARP was signed by President Biden on March 11, 2021, and the funds will aid tribes as they address the COVID-19 pandemic and its damaging impacts on Indian Country. For more information please visit the US Department of Indian Affairs Website: https://www.indianaffairs.gov/news/indian-affairs-begins-disbursement-900-million-american-rescue-plan-funding-tribes-across.

The Tribal Government staff of CTCLUSI have been in consistent communication with the BIA, attending meetings and receiving informational press releases about the upcoming funding and how to apply. The BIA methodologies for each allocation for Tribes will be done based on enrollment. Debbie Bossley, Tribal Council CTCLUSI Chairwoman shared, “We have recently made an official request for these funds and Tribal Government staff will be diligently working with Tribal Leadership to establish priorities for this funding once we know what our allocation will be. I am confident these much needed resources will offer tremendous assistance in multiple areas of the Tribal Government and its programs.”

The Enrollment Department is urging membership, at this time, to verify contact information is current, so we may provide you with any pertinent information in the near future. You may provide current contact information on the website under Enrollment, by submitting a Change of Address Form or by contacting any of the Tribe’s offices in Coos Bay, Florence or Eugene.

Seattle (May 3, 2021) The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has approved the request by the Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua, and Siuslaw Indians to assume responsibilities of the Clean Water Act’s water quality standards and certification programs on reservation and trust lands.

With this approval, the CTCLUSI will assume authority over all surface waters within the Reservation and Trust Lands. Trust lands include lands located outside of the reservation that are held in trust by the United States for the CTCLUSI. The CTCLUSI Reservation and Trust Lands collectively cover almost 15,000 acres of southwest Oregon.

According to Dan Opalski, Director of EPA’s Water Division in Seattle: "We are pleased to approve the Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua, & Siuslaw Indians’ request for Treatment in a Similar Manner as a State. We support their efforts to protect water quality and celebrate this enhancement of our partnership in implementing the Clean Water Act. We look forward to our continued work with the tribes to protect vital resources now and for future generations."

According to the CTCLUSI Tribal Council: "This Treatment in a Similar Manner as State recognition is an important acknowledgment of tribal sovereignty by the EPA. We are very pleased with this determination. Water is Life! Water is and always has been an important resource for the Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua, & Siuslaw Indians and we are excited that we can now manage the tribe’s waters more directly."

The CTCLUSI applied to EPA for “Treatment in a Similar Manner to a State” (TAS) for the Clean Water Act section 303(c) water quality standards and the section 401 water quality certification programs on December 17, 2019, and supplemented the application on June 12, 2020.

Specifically, this approval will enable the CTCLUSI to set water quality goals and standards - the regulatory and scientific foundation for protecting water quality - for all water bodies within the CTCLUSI Reservation and Trust Lands. EPA’s approval does not alter or modify water quality standards outside of the CTCLUSI Reservation and Trust Lands. Today’s approval authorizes the CTCLUSI to develop water quality standards for all surface waters within the CTCLUSI Reservation and Trust Lands and to ensure that CWA-permitted discharges will meet all applicable water quality standards for reservation waters after those standards are reviewed and approved by EPA. The CTCLUSI have previously been granted TAS status for other Clean Water Act sections: section 106 - Water Pollution Protection and section 319 - Nonpoint Source programs, in 2002 and 2003, respectively.

Several federal environmental laws, including the Clean Water Act, authorize EPA to treat eligible federally recognized Indian tribes in a similar manner as a state for implementing and managing certain environmental programs.

The basic requirements for applying for TAS are that the tribe must be federally recognized; have a governing body to carry out substantial governmental duties and powers; have the appropriate authority, and be capable of administering the functions of the program.

EPA’s approval of the CTCLUSI’s application does not constitute an approval (nor disapproval) of the tribes’ water quality standards. Any water quality standards adopted by a tribe and submitted to EPA for action must satisfy all Clean Water Act and other regulatory requirements, including public participation to ensure an appropriate opportunity for any interested entities to provide input on the proposed water quality standards. OIEA Conference

The OIEA conference this year had a theme of “Our Roots”. Covid-19 cancelled last year’s conference and the board thought it was best to carry forward this theme to this year’s conference. The conference consisted of a three-day conference and was a great experience. Thursday evening consisted of attending Dr. Cornel Pewewardy’s presentation and he invited all to join in the conversation that followed. “Dr. Cornel Pewewardy (Comanche-Kiowa) is Professor Emeritus, Indigenous Nations Studies at Portland State University. Dr. Pewewardy’s research explores the theoretical and philosophical foundations of postcolonial Indigenous research paradigms that focused on historical and political insight into the lingering impact of colonization, considering the issues faced by Indigenous peoples today and identities to survive in the twenty-first century” (http://www.oiea.org/oiea-events/annual-conference/). He had great words of wisdom to share with the audience, and he kicked off the conference in a good way. Friday consisted of Keynote Speakers Gabe Shoeships, Judy BlueHorse Skelton, Leialoha Kaula, and the Native Wellness Institute. I was asked to do the blessing to open Saturday’s session, and did so with respect and humility.

All bios of Keynote Speakers can be found at http://www.oiea.org/oiea-events/annual-conference/.

COVID-19 vaccines save lives

COVID-19 has been hard for our people and many of us have lost loved ones. Now a vaccine is ready but we have questions. Our past makes it hard to trust the health care system. Here's how tribal leaders are helping to protect our communities.

What are the COVID-19 vaccine trials?
The vaccine trials helped us study if the shot is safe for tribal members.
- Tribal elders, leaders, and doctors worked with the National Institute for Health to study if the vaccine is safe for our bodies.
- Thousands of tribal members chose to be part of the trials.

What have we learned so far?
Many trials, tests and studies have helped us learn more about the vaccine.
- We know the vaccine is safe and works well.
- The vaccine does not affect Native people differently than others.
- We are also making sure the vaccine is safe for us for years to come.

How can the vaccine help tribal communities?
When we all get vaccinated, we can slow the spread of the virus and save lives.
- The vaccine protects our community members.
- When we all get vaccinated, we protect the people in our communities who are most at risk, like our elders, babies and those who have serious health problems.
- If enough people get the shot, whole communities can be protected.

How to get vaccinated:
There are different ways tribal members and our families can get the shot.

Please check the https://ctclusi.org/ for future updates. We are doing our best to keep our Tribal Members and Families updated, and informed.
We get vaccinated to protect our elders

COVID-19 is hard for our communities. Our elders can get very sick. Now that a vaccine is ready, tribal members might have questions. We remember a painful history with vaccines. That's why thousands of tribal members chose to be part of vaccine trials to make sure it's safe for Native people. Now we know it's safe and one of the ways we help protect our people and our culture.

What is COVID-19?

COVID-19 (coronavirus) is a harmful virus spreading around the world. It spreads when someone who's infected coughs, sneezes, talks or laughs.
- Symptoms include a fever of 100.4° F or more, a bad cough, aching body, a hard time breathing.
- Older people and those with serious health problems are most at risk of getting very sick.

How does the COVID-19 vaccine work?

It's like the flu shot. It keeps your body healthy and strong so you don't get sick.
- It helps protect your body against the virus.
- Your body creates antibodies so you can fight off COVID-19.
- Even after you get the shot, you can help keep other people safe by wearing a mask or face covering.

How good is the vaccine?

The COVID-19 vaccine works even better than the flu shot. Millions of people around the world have chosen to get the shot.
- It protects us from COVID-19.
- It keeps people from getting very sick even if they get COVID-19.

Talk with your loved ones

When we talk about the vaccine with our elders, we can help save precious lives.
- Thousands of Native Americans chose to be vaccinated and they were safe and healthy after.
- When we all get the shot, we protect each other and future generations.
Get Vaccinated Oregon

Vaccination is Oregon’s surest path to making sure Oregonians and their loved ones are protected from COVID-19, and to more fully reopening our economy and lifting health and safety restrictions. Achieving county-level and statewide vaccination goals will ensure that COVID-19 can no longer spread in our communities.

Statewide Lifting of Risk Level Framework

Statewide, Oregon must reach 70% of the population 16 and older with a first vaccine dose in order to more fully reopen Oregon’s economy by lifting most of the health and safety restrictions imposed by the Risk Level framework.

- All health and safety requirements for counties under the Risk Level framework, other than some mask and distancing requirements, based on CDC guidance, will be lifted and counties will no longer be assigned risk levels.*
- Statewide, Oregon must continue to work towards closing equity gaps for communities of color.

* Oregon public schools will still be required to follow Ready Schools, Safe Learners health and safety requirements, with the Oregon Health Authority and Oregon Department of Education updating that guidance for the 2021-22 school year to lift most restrictions based on CDC guidance.

Counties Eligible for Lower Risk, Beginning May 21

Beginning May 21, counties will be eligible for the option to move weekly to the Lower Risk health and safety restrictions in Oregon's Risk Level Framework. To do so, they must:

- Reach 65% of the county population 16 and older with a first vaccine dose and submit a complete plan to OHA which details how the county plans to close the equity gaps in their vaccination efforts.

Counties will be eligible for state resources to help achieve these goals, and will be eligible for additional funding as they demonstrate making progress towards closing their equity gaps.

Document accessibility: For individuals with disabilities or individuals who speak a language other than English, OHA can provide information in alternate formats such as translations, large print, or braille. Contact the Health Information Center at 1-971-673-2411, 711 TTY or COVID19.LanguageAccess@dhs.state.or.us.

Coronavirus Variants

Coronavirus variants are in the news frequently now. Learning about virus variants and why scientists are concerned about them will help us protect our health and the health of our families and communities.

What are virus variants?
Variants are slightly different copies of an original virus that makes us sick. When viruses spread from person to person, they copy their codes (genome sequences) with each new infection. The virus that causes COVID-19 has 30,0001 sequences in its code and when it is copied – sometimes slight mistakes are made, changing the virus a bit. This changed virus is called a variant.

Changes to viruses are normal. All viruses – including the one that causes COVID-19 disease – change over time. Most changes and variants do not alter how the virus behaves when it makes us sick. But sometimes certain changes can cause variants to spread faster, make people sicker, or make vaccines less effective2. These kinds of virus variants are called Variants of Concern (VOC).3

Coronavirus Variants of Concern in the United States

As of April 2021, there are five coronavirus Variants of Concern in the United States being watched and tracked carefully by scientists and medical professionals. All of these new variants appear to be more contagious than the original coronavirus and spread more easily to unvaccinated people. And, some appear to cause more severe disease4.

The good news is that we have tools to protect ourselves and our communities from these new variants.

To learn more about VOCs, see: COVID-Variants

Can the vaccines protect us from new variants?

YES! All the vaccines we currently have provide protection against the variants5. While the levels of protection can vary, studies have shown that the vaccines protect against severe disease, hospitalization, and death from the variants. Research is on-going into how protective the vaccines are and if booster shots for the variants are needed, but right now, there is no evidence to suggest a significant reduction in vaccine effectiveness, meaning vaccination remains one of the most important tools in defeating COVID-19.

How can we prevent the spread of new variants?

Stopping the spread of new variants is possible and everyone can help. Remaining vigilant until the majority of all our people, young and old, and surrounding communities are vaccinated is critical. Measures to limit the spread of the virus haven’t changed – wearing a mask, physical distancing, avoiding crowded places or closed settings, and frequent hand washing – work by reducing the potential for transmission of the variants and, therefore, reducing opportunities for the virus to change. Continue practicing these measures until health authorities say it is safe to stop.

Since I am young and healthy, and our elders are vaccinated – do I still need to be vaccinated?

YES! Getting vaccinated is especially important now that the virus is changing. When a virus is circulating widely to unvaccinated people, it has more opportunities to change when copying itself and can potentially make variants that are even more dangerous. No matter what your age, it is critical to get vaccinated when it’s your turn. This will help protect our communities, including our treasured elders.

As Indigenous people, it is our role to learn from those who came before us and nurture those who come next. We dance, we pray, we share, we adapt, we protect. Getting vaccinated is the best way to protect our community and the quickest way to end the pandemic!

When You've Been Fully Vaccinated
How to Protect Yourself and Others
Article by The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. April 2, 2021
Contributed by Kristy Petrie, RN BSN, Community Health Nurse

What You Can Start to Do
If you've been fully vaccinated:

- You can gather indoors with fully vaccinated people without wearing a mask or staying 6 feet apart.
- You can gather indoors with unvaccinated people of any age from one other household (for example, visiting with relatives who all live together) without masks or staying 6 feet apart, unless any of those people or anyone they live with has an increased risk for severe illness from COVID-19.
- If you travel in the United States, you do not need to get tested before or after travel.
- If you've been around someone who has COVID-19, you do not need to stay away from others or get tested unless you have symptoms.
  - However, if you live in a group setting (like a correctional or detention facility or group home) and are around someone who has COVID-19, you should still stay away from others for 14 days and get tested, even if you don’t have symptoms.

Have You Been Fully Vaccinated? People are considered fully vaccinated:

- 2 weeks after their second dose in a 2-dose series, such as the Pfizer or Moderna vaccines, or
- 2 weeks after a single-dose vaccine, such as Johnson & Johnson’s Janssen vaccine

If you don’t meet these requirements, you are NOT fully vaccinated. Keep taking all precautions until you are fully vaccinated.
